After having a lot of fun researching exercise nutrition for the previous two posts in this series, those on pre-workout nutrition and recovery drinks, I figured the "during the run" post would be a breeze. After all, everyone drinks (or eats) something during his or her run; only those who take fitness more seriously bother to think about the before and after.

It's an extraordinary claim. Is there any evidence for it at all? Well, no. Plenty of assertions, and no evidence. However, while that which can be asserted without evidence can be dismissed without evidence, that won't necessarily help you in a debate, where the burden of proof can be unfairly shifted from the perspective of the audience by asking the pointed questions the argument is ...

NYC is home to some of the best pizza in the country. Period. Motorino Pizza - this East Village joint serves up some really great artisanal, Neapolitan-style pizzas with the perfect amount of char. I really love their Margherita and Brussels Sprout pies. Update: the Prosciutto de Parma is perhaps my new favorite pie there. They also have locations in Williamsburg and the Upper West Side.

What most people don't know is that the persimmon is the North American ebony, Diospyros virginiana (dye-OSS-pih-ross ver-jin-nee-AY-nuh.) There are few trees more versatile than the persimmon. The fruit, actually the largest native berry in North America, can be eaten out of hand or cooked in various ways.
